Donald C. Mosley was Professor Emeritus of Management at the University of South Alabama and also the founder and chairman of the Synergistic Consulting Group. Earlier in his career, Dr. Mosley served as Chair of the Management Department at Mississippi State University and as a visiting professor at the University of Otago in Dunedin, New Zealand (where he helped to develop the first M.B.A. degree program in New Zealand). In 1973 he became Dean of the College of Business at the University of South Alabama in Mobile, where he helped the College become accredited by the American Assembly of Collegiate Schools of Business. In 1983, he returned to teaching, research, and consulting; and in 1999 he received the University of South Alabama Alumni Association's Outstanding Professor award and was mentioned in Who's Who Among America's Teachers. Donald C. Mosley, Jr. is an Assistant Professor of Management at the University of South Alabama where he teaches Management Theory and Practice, Organizational Behavior, and Management Seminar. He received his Ph.D. in Business Administration from Mississippi State University. He earned a Bachelor of Arts degree from Millsaps College and a Master of Business Administration degree from the University of South Alabama. He has conducted research in the areas of recruiting, selection, conflict management, teamwork, leadership, and partnering. As a consultant, he has been instrumental in working with organizations in the public and private sectors to implement organizational development techniques and supervisory training programs. Dr. Mosley is a member of the Academy of Management Association and the Southern Management Association. Paul Pietri is Professor of Management at the University of South Alabama; in 1993, the Alumni Association selected him for their Outstanding Professor award. Dr. Pietri has an extensive background as a trainer/consultant to private and public sector organizations, both in North America and abroad. He has designed, administered, and conducted training at the supervisory level for organizations in thirty-five states and Canada. These include International Paper Company, Shell, Dupont, the U.S. Departments of Agriculture, Labor, and Defense, and others. He also helped design curriculum for the "Supervisory Communication" segment of Mississippi Public Television's series "Effective Communication". His writings have reflected his training and design experiences, and appeared in such journals as Training, Organizational Development Journal, Industrial Management, and others.

The book was good for school. But the book I received had nasty cigarette water all over it and I was super disappointed that anyone would think to themselves it's still okay to rent out, absolutely GROSS! Every time I opened my book I could just smell it. Try again rent! I've rented before so yes I know not all books come like that because they are normally decent books. As far as the book it's easy to read and has many ways of showing what they are trying to explain.

Excellent!

It was used, but not gross. no missing pages and a very fair price.

good rental textbook, was exactly what was promised!

Was as advertised. Good purchase

I am very pleased with the condition of the book! It is a required book for my class. Thank you. I kept the box in mint condition in order to send the book back when I am done with it in May. BUT..there was no slip to use for the return.

It is perfect and in great awesome quality, so happy I chose to purchase the book from this seller, I will def purchase another book from this seller

Great book Very easy to read and understand with lots of real life accounts from actual managers and organizations. Really liked the class I had this for and the way the book is set up makes it very easy to put everything together
