Tanya's Cat Food Data: US Foods In Order Of Phosphorus Content For Cats With Chronic Kidney Disease

Synopsis

Cats with chronic kidney disease (CKD) have particular nutritional needs. Most importantly, they need to eat foods with as low a phosphorus content as possible. Special therapeutic kidney diets are widely available, but not every CKD cat will eat these foods; and it is essential that a CKD cat eats. This book therefore lists the composition of more than 1300 US cat foods from a CKD perspective i.e. providing the phosphorus, protein, sodium, fat and carbohydrate values on a dry matter analysis, together with the calorie content. If you have a cat with kidney disease, you need this book. Don't go cat food shopping without it!

Helen Fitzsimons has been running Tanya's Comprehensive Guide to Feline Chronic Kidney Disease website (also available as a book) since 2000. Her food data tables are one of the most popular parts of her site and are now available in book form.

I have been a fan of Ms. Fitzsimon's fact-filled website, Tanya's Comprehensive Guide to Feline Chronic Kidney Disease for many years. The advice on the website is compassionate and has helped me deal with a couple of my kitties with CKD. It is the bible, addressing almost any issue you might encounter. I even went there for advice when a cat wouldn't eat or had other issues. When the vet recommended a food that my cat wouldn't eat, I would go to the website to find alternatives and the food data charts put the information in a convenient place to compare different foods. Thank you Helen, for all the work you do for the cat families all over the world. I originally thought to buy this book to support the website, but it is very handy. Here you have the data you need to carry with you when you go shopping for food. It's a must have.

It gives a lot of information on nearly all cat food brands, it beats standing in the store for hours reading all the labels which I have done. I think it is valuable to have because I can help my friends as well when they ask me about a certain brand. My friends know I am picky and don't like vet bills so healthy eating is a must. I don't buy anything from China for many reasons besides healthy foods, I have bought from Taiwan but I am careful to read the label's, I have one cat that won't eat it if it's not fish she is the expert on good fish food. Yes the book is worth having, but like all things they can only help if your cat or dog will eat what you carefully chose to buy. The brand I buy was rated well and I will stick with it. Tanya's Cat Food Data: US Foods in Order of... Helen Fitzsimons

This is one of the most helpful references for owners of CKF (or diabetic) cats; and indeed for ANY cat owner who's interested in what they're feeding their cat! The material is also available on the writer's website, but having it in this format is a great resource too -- I was surprised how useful a physical version was. Highly recommend!

thank you for putting this easy to read book together. The information is so helpful. Thank you Disappointed some brands did not cooperate with author.

Very helpful book

A valuable resource for cat parents.
